

Currency and Commodity Trading Analyst and Manager

Our client STILLMONT ADVISORS LTD is interested in employing an experienced Currency and Commodity Trading Analyst and Manager to provide investment management services to select high net worth individuals from their office in Bermuda.

The successful applicant will work variable hours as demanded by global market conditions, and will manage multiple client currency and precious metal portfolios with varying degrees of leverage. He/she will be required to provide daily forecasting for major commodities, currencies and security markets. He/she will also be required to support the information technology, marketing, compliance and accounting operations of a small international investment boutique. Responsibilities will also include evaluating currency forecasting models and developing new ones, while staying current with global financial trends in all timeframes.

The minimum requirements for this position are as follows:

- A ten-year track record of successful foreign exchange and financial market forecasts;
- At least ten years experience with the practical application of the Elliott wave forecasting methodology;
- Comprehensive experience trading futures and interbank currency forwards.
- Deep familiarity one of the major professional data/analysis software packages;
- Excellent presentation, verbal and written communication skills, ideally with fluency in one or more foreign languages.

A limited salary, potential bonus and typical benefits are offered.

Applications will be held in strict confidence and should be sent to:

Helen Forrest
The Human Resource Manager
LINCOLN MANAGEMENT LTD
PO Box HM2964
Hamilton HM MX
Email: helen@cff.bm

The deadline for all applicants is December 30th 2011