

Professional Speaker

Must have considerable experience – ideally having received compensation for speaking to audiences of 15 or more at least 20 times each year for more than five years. This is important as remuneration is based on a percentage of seminar revenue. Should be able to demonstrate ability to present own material in a wide range of business topics, from management training to business relationship issues. Must also be able to demonstrate strong motivational skills. This is a part-time position, working several days a month during normal business hours.
