

i*a media ltd., a boutique marketing firm specialising in new media, seeks a Senior Writer and Photographer to research, develop and illustrate original content for publication. The successful candidate must be a self-motivated, articulate, critical and fully engaged individual with excellent oral and written communication skills and strong editorial sensibilities. He or she must also be proficient in photography and the use of post-processing software, have a basic understanding of graphic design and html code modification.

Interested applicants should submit a resume, two writing samples and six images to mail@islandatelier.com no later than January 24, 2014.