- Provide ongoing daily application support to business users with a focus on Underwriting and Risk & Analytics
- Maintain a comprehensive understanding of current and future business needs
- Support the implementation of new business solutions
- Upgrade and maintain business applications with external vendors
- Provide training for new and existing business applications
- Help ensure application-related practices are strategically aligned with overall business objectives
- Act as a process improvement subject matter expert

What you require for the job

As an IT Applications Manager, you will possess the following experience, technical skills and personal characteristics:

- Minimum of 5 years of experience with business applications support, preferably within the re/insurance industry
- University degree
- Experience in Salesforce administration is preferred
- Experience with how applications are administered and best practices for use
- Capacity to learn new applications and solutions
- Ability to act as an effective liaison between the business and technical engineers to facilitate issue resolution
- Effective and open communications style, with ability to facilitate meaningful discussions about how applications need to support business requirements
- Ability to multitask and effectively prioritize
- Strong project management and documentation skills
- Aptitude for writing and executing test scripts
- Strengths in collaboration with an open and clear communication style
