BERMUDA COLLEGE'S CORE VALUE — COMMITMENT TO EMPLOYEES

Bermuda College supports a work environment that is conducive to a healthy balance among work, family life and self, recognizing that is what leads to a dedicated, creative and innovative employee. We will value each employee's job as a meaningful part of the whole; we will provide professional development opportunities and clearly defined career tracks.

THE POST – PSYCHOLOGY LECTURER

The successful candidate should be a creative professional who is able to provide practical hands-on instruction to create an engaging learning environment, evaluate student academic performance using a variety of assessments and techniques, and use instructional technology along with active learning approaches. While most teaching will be on campus, some teaching may be online. The lecturer may also be required to teach one evening, per semester, during the academic year. In addition, as summer teaching is optional, the lecturer will be remunerated accordingly.

RESPONSIBILITIES AND ACCOUNTABILITIES

The lecturer will teach courses including Introduction to Psychology I & II, Introduction to Social Psychology, Human Development, Learning Theory, and Abnormal Psychology.

ESSENTIAL QUALIFICATIONS AND EXPERIENCE

The candidate for this teaching position in the Arts & Science Division must possess a Master's Degree (preferably a PhD) from an accredited Psychological research programme. Must be competent in the use of digital-learning tools and applications. In addition, a minimum of two (2) years' teaching experience at the college/university level is preferred.

APPLICATION DOCUMENTS

Please send, along with your resume: At least two (2) each, recent, written, work and character references which include contact information. Persons providing a work reference must be able to assess your qualifications and experience from their own experience, when working with you. If applying for a teaching post, please provide copies of transcripts and/or copies of relevant certificates from the relevant institution.
