

Invest Differently

Investment Analyst Opportunity

We are currently recruiting an investment analyst to join our Multi-Asset Investment Team. The team is responsible for researching securities and hedging instruments for inclusion in our portfolios. This role will include in-depth company analysis and financial modelling, as well as research into geopolitical and macro-economic issues, bond covenants and provisions, and bankruptcy and restructuring-related legal matters affecting the value of potential investments.

Why Orbis?

- Culture. We are committed to our Core Values. We encourage intellectual curiosity and individualism as well as collaboration across different areas of the business. We seek to hear our people's voices - whether quiet or loud. Sharing ideas and challenging the status quo are commonplace.
- Autonomy. While guidance and support are provided, team members own their work and projects.
- Growth opportunities. We support our people in continuous learning and development.
- Agile environment. We are committed to providing our people with a work environment that balances their personal needs, commitments, and interests with the needs of their team and the needs of our clients.
- Philanthropy. Our people can contribute to society in a unique and personal way, through various philanthropic opportunities and programmes.

About You:

The successful applicant will have a JD from a top tier U.S. law school with an outstanding academic record and will have demonstrated experience in business or finance. An undergraduate or graduate degree in a business discipline is desirable, but not necessarily required. The successful applicant must (i) have at least two years' experience in a bankruptcy or distressed company-related field, including practicing bankruptcy law or dealing with restructuring or distressed situations from a banking or accounting perspective, and be demonstrably familiar with basic debt covenants commonly included within corporate bond indentures (and similar) and related security instruments and (ii) at least two years' experience researching/analyzing equity securities. In addition, the successful applicant must possess demonstrable financial modelling skills, strong oral and written communication skills, and strong proficiency in Excel. International experience and an interest in geopolitics and macroeconomics are desirable.

The Company:

We are a global firm with offices across eight countries, over 400 employees and more than $30 billion in assets under management. But those numbers don't define Orbis. Our values, how we do things day-by-day, and how we add value for our clients define us.

Our investment philosophy is fundamental, long-term and contrarian. As contrarian investors, we aim to take a different perspective, and this filters into everything we do. To invest differently, you need to think differently. This is encouraged by having teams of people with different backgrounds, experiences and perspectives.
