

Actuary Associate

At PricewaterhouseCoopers Bermuda you will be challenged by the work we do, and the environment in which our clients do business. Your ideas will be valued and your individuality will be recognised. We encourage you to consider a career in our dynamic environment and allow us to help you realise your goals.

We will provide comprehensive training and development opportunities and support to assist you in completing your professional examinations.

The role:

You will provide actuarial services to our property and casualty insurance, reinsurance, and captive insurance clients and support the further development of our actuarial consulting practice.

Specifically, you will:

- Provide audit support in the assessment of client reserve balances and actuarial processes in accordance with both accounting and actuarial standards;
- Provide actuarial consulting services including reserving, pricing, risk and capital modelling and other actuarial projects;
- Develop an understanding of actuarial techniques and procedures and apply them to work products;
- Demonstrate continued success on actuarial exams;
- Provide excellent service to internal and external clients; and
- Learn to proficiently use software, spreadsheets, other tools to perform and document your work.

Essential skills and experience:

The successful candidate will have a mathematics or actuarial-based university degree and have demonstrated success in completing examinations administered by the Institute of Actuaries, the Casualty Actuarial Society or an equivalent body.

- Excellent communication, organisational and interpersonal skills;
- Ability to work under pressure and manage several ongoing projects simultaneously while meeting tight deadlines;
- Flexibility to work evenings and weekends as required;
- Proficient with Microsoft Office programmes; and
- Experience with actuarial software such as Affinity, ReservePro and @Risk would be an advantage.
